Life Can Be So Easy!

Claudia McClain

Summer draws to an end, “Back to School” is in full swing, and we are excited about our upcoming “end-of-summer” events. (Please turn over to learn more.) Yet, we also look forward to September. Are you wondering what the month of September has to do with insurance?

September is

National Life Insurance Awareness Month.

Three quarters of Americans believe that Life Insurance is the best way to protect a family financially, in case the primary wage earner dies (beating savings, assets, or investments as an emergency plan.)

Yet, too many folks postpone decisions about life insurance. While they know they should have it, families often avoid dealing with the topic because of presumed cost and/or complexity. Others have not purchased their own life insurance because their employer provides some coverage. But what if you change jobs or your employer decides to cut costs and eliminate some benefits?
